'Economy' Size Ice Cubes Cut

By PEGGY BANCROFT

GREENTOWN—Three thousand economy size ice cubes were cut Saturday by Max Hazelton and his five man crew in an annual operation on a pond owned by Mrs. Nina Hepps.

This is one of the earliest cuttings in 25 years because of the cold weather which has struck the Poconos.

According to Hazelton, who has cut approximately 75,000 cakes of ice in his 25-year stint, each chunk is 12 inches by 24 inches in size and weighs 112 pounds. The job is usually begun in February.

However, continued sub-zero weather has speeded up the operation and has produced good clear ice cakes for 1961.

Ice cutting is rare in this area today and Hazelton, as far as can be determined, is the only one engaged in the operation. He began the business in 1935 with his brother and for the past 15 years has carried out the chore himself.

The cutting of ice cakes is not the beginning. The surface of the pond must be kept free of snow and Hazelton drives busily around the pond in his jeep removing snow to insure good clear ice.

When the ice is at least a foot thick the ice cutting machinery is put into operation.

Only a thin layer of saved-in rock, plugging the hole, saved him from a death plunge of 140 feet.

Larry was rescued Saturday night by a policeman who, dodging falling rock, lowered himself 50 feet down a rope tied to a ladder jutting over the top of the dark hole.

The rescue, made while floodlights pierced the eerie scene and scores of workers watched nervously, stirred up more excitement than this old boom town has known since the days Mark Twain worked as a newspaperman here.

Searches For Relics
Larry, in search of relics for his high school class in Reno, was exploring the abandoned air shaft with two friends, Fred Veldero, 16, and Howard Carlson, 17, of Sparks.

They were lowering Larry by rope down the shaft leading to the Sutter tunnel, an engineering marvel built at a cost of millions back in the 1890s.

"When I got down about 15 feet I got scared and hollered for them to pull me up," Larry said.

"Then the rope broke. I thought I was dead."

The rope had fouled on a sharp rock. Larry fell and slid 50 feet to the cave-in rock.

Just above him, clinging pre-

Decision Today

Georgia University Faces Integration

ATLANTA (AP)—Gov. Ernest Vandiver said Sunday he would "speak to the people" Monday and tell them his decision on how the state will meet court-ordered integration at the University of Georgia.

A federal judge has ruled the university must open its doors to Negroes for the first time in its 175-year history.

The governor called a strategy meeting Sunday of the attorney general, special counsel, State Board of Regents, which governs state-supported institutions of higher learning, and A. D. Adair, university president.

No policy decision was made at the meeting, Vandiver said later. "I called the meeting to give the leaders the full information on the court decision and its legal effect. No policy decision will be made now, but it will be made public Monday. I will deal with the question then and not before."

Elaborates

Vandiver elaborated briefly on a statement he issued Saturday on the integration order by U.S. District Judge W. A. Boatle in Macon. Vandiver had said entrance of the Negroes into the university would have the effect of cutting off its funds under terms of the state's Appropriation Act.

He said Sunday the act provides for freezing all university funds, those on hand as well as operating funds, in the event the school is forced by a federal court to admit Negroes.

Lt. Gov. Garland Byrd, who also attended the meeting, was asked whether he favored keeping the university open. "I know of no responsible official who desires public schools to be closed," he said.

Roy Harris of Augusta, a member of the Board of Regents and an ardent segregationist, said "I'm opposed to cooperating with any courts or anybody else to bring racial mixing to our schools or to anywhere else."

George Smith II, speaker of the House, said, "We all hope the University of Georgia will not be closed, but at this time I don't feel we could accept taken integration."

The attorney general has already filed a motion seeking to stay Boatle's order. A hearing has been set on the motion for 9:30 a.m. Monday.

There was little in the exhibition opened Saturday by Premier Prince Boun Oum that had not been disclosed before to Westerners, many of whom were skeptical.

There was one American 105mm. howitzer made in 1942. This was described as probably a French gun captured by the Communist North Vietnamese at Dien Bien Phu — where France finally lost the Indochina war — and supplied to pro-Communist Pathet Lao forces.

Other Exhibits
Among the other exhibits: A complete 120mm. mortar which bore the engraving 1957 and the Chinese character "year" on its circular base.

Some 75mm. recoilless rifle shells with Russian Cyrillic lettering.

Some 120mm. mortar shells with the legend "Chinese model."

Various mortar shell detonators. A parachute bearing Chinese characters.

All this equipment, according to signs prepared by the government, was seized at various points after the troops of Boun Oum and Gen. Phoumi Nosavan ran Capt. Kong Le's Red-tinted rebels out of Vientiane Dec. 27.

Selection of the 4-H Club baby beef champion Thursday and its auction Friday will highlight the program later in the week.

Prisoners
Take Hostages
PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Several hundred policemen surrounded Eastern State Correctional Institution Sunday night as an unknown number of prisoners ran loose and took hostages.

A fire broke out inside the walls of the old prison and one fire truck with high pressure hoses went inside to fight it.

Police Commissioner Albert N. Brown told newsmen that he knew of at least one hostage and there was believed to be more.

Maj. Paul C. Stillwell of the penitentiary guards said, "We're now moving in and getting the situation under control."

He said there had not been a riot, but an attempt had been made to escape.

Saboteurs In Action

Belgian Railroad Blown Up

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—Saboteurs blew up the Liege-Namur railroad in two places and somebody fired on a bus Sunday, its 20th day of a strike against the Belgian government's austerity program. The strike death toll rose to two.

Trains were halted by destruction of the railroad tracks. Phone wires along the line also were cut.

A bus traveling between Verriers and Eupen was fired on from a speeding car. Bullets scarred the front of the bus, but no one was hurt.

More tree trunks, nails and cobble stones were strewn across roads in the Liege area in the night. Other sabotage was reported near Ghent and in southern Borinage.

Special Meet
A special ministerial committee set up to coordinate security measures against further violence met again at the Interior Ministry in Brussels. Premier Gaston Eyskens' government has expressed hope a back-to-work movement will swell Monday.

Laurent Rodder, 31, critically injured in the Guillemins railway station rioting in Liege Friday, died early Sunday from a bullet wound. Police said he was a Communist.

They reported the fatal bullet was not of the type used by either city or state police and that it appeared to have been fired from a roof near the station of the eastern industrial city.

Seventy soldiers helped defend the station against the rioters, who smashed its glass and metal front with sticks, stones and bricks.

Troops and police finally put down the riot with tear gas, sabers and gunfire. Eighty demonstrators were arrested, among them nine Italians now subject to possible deportation. Rodder was one of 10 persons seriously injured in Liege, where a post office and a newspaper also were partly wrecked.

The first man to die in the disorders was a Brussels worker, Van der Trappes. He was shot in an earlier riot in Brussels. That shot was fired by a passerby who claimed he was trying to rescue a policeman being mauled by a group of demonstrators.

No Final Figures
No final figures were yet available from Algeria, where the turnout had been estimated at around 60 percent despite massive Moslem abstentions in the cities.

Proclamation of the Algerian result was expected later.

De Gaulle is believed to consider a 65 per cent affirmative vote as a sufficient mandate for carrying out his Algerian plan. He has hinted he will resign if his program is not solidly approved.

The turnout during three days of voting in Algeria was officially given as 60.3 per cent. Thousands of Moslems heeded nationalist rebel leaders' orders to boycott the referendum.

With the large cities of Algiers and Oran still to be heard from, available returns showed those Algerians who voted came out 73.8 per cent for De Gaulle.

"No" votes, however, are expected to run ahead in Algiers and Oran where large groups of French settlers are adamantly opposed to giving the Algerians self-government.

Although polling day was generally quiet in France, violence flared in Algeria where 14 were killed and scores wounded. All but one of those killed were Moslems. However, the bloody interracial rioting which officials had feared in Algiers and Oran never developed.

"Have Spoken"
Former premier Paul Reynaud, 82-year-old veteran statesman, said: "The French people have spoken. It has stayed faithful to the tradition which has earned it its prestige in the world in refusing, as parliament had done before it, the offer made by De Gaulle to the people of Algeria to choose freely their destiny. If it had acted otherwise, it would have meant the divorce of France and the free world."

Jacques Soustelle, who leads the diehard French Algeria faction against De Gaulle, said France and Algeria had voted in different ways.

"While Algeria voted in massive and enthusiastic fashion in September 1958 (putting De Gaulle in power), it is no longer the case today," he said.

"The gulf is deepened between the two shores of the Mediterranean. I fear that the vote of today will be interpreted in Algeria as a gesture of abandonment and will only add to the distress of our unfortunate countrymen."

Admiralty
Jails 5 On Espionage
LONDON (AP)—Five persons, three of them said to be Canadians, were arrested on espionage charges Sunday.

Police said two of the five were Admiralty employees at a top-secret navy research station at Portland on England's south coast.

The government charged before a London magistrate that the three men and two women, "with other persons unknown, unlawfully conspired to commit breaches of Section 1 of the Official Secrets Act" between June 1950 and this month.

The three reported to be Canadians were identified as Peter J. Kroger, 50, a bookseller; his wife, Helen, 50; and Gordon Arnold Lonsdale, 37, a businessman.

Their citizenship could not be confirmed immediately.

Officials said the Admiralty employees were Henry Frederick Houghton, 35, and Ethel Elizabeth Goe, 46.

JFK Advisers Plan 'Peace Corps'

NEW YORK (AP)—A plan to put idealistic young Americans to work helping underdeveloped countries, without promising the participants exemption from military service, was made public Sunday by advisers to President-elect John F. Kennedy.

The Kennedy headquarters distributed the report of a task force on the Youth Peace Corps without indicating whether he had approved it in detail.

Kennedy proposed the general idea during his campaign, suggesting that peace corps service might be a substitute for the military scale, involving only some hundred participants.

But Dr. Max Millikan, director of the Center for International Studies at Massachusetts Institute of Technology and head of the task force which drew up the plan, reported he considers it "undesirable to publicize this program as an alternative to the draft."

Plenty Dedicated
There are plenty of dedicated young men and women ready to sign up without such an inducement, he said, especially since the program would be launched on a relatively small, experimental scale.

Millikan suggested the volunteers could be made eligible for draft deferment as some graduate students now are.

The youth program, as Millikan's group conceived it, would be tailored to the talents and enthusiasm of college graduates in their 20s.

Maturity and possession of skills actually in short supply in the country being aided should be absolute requisites, Millikan said.

Will Train
He observed that "such joint efforts, if improperly conceived and poorly administered, can backfire badly and damage rather than improve international understanding."

The supervising government agency would be called the International Youth Service Agency and would be governed by a board of directors representing the International Cooperation Administration, the U.S. Information Agency, the State Department and private foundations and professional groups.

Volunteers for the program would receive several months training, including language studies where necessary, and would be expected to commit themselves for at least two years.

Fewer Fires Reported In Past Year

ANNUAL fire reports from various companies in the county show that there were fewer fires in 1960 than in 1959. Companies reporting are:

West End Fire Co., Brodheadsville, responded to nine fires during 1960. Fire Chief Glenn Snyder said last night.

In a breakdown of the fires, there were two dwellings, one barn, one grass, one automobile and two woods fires.

The estimated loss due to the fires was placed at $36,800.

Chief Snyder said that this year was lower than 1959 for fires in his area.

Fire Chief Ralph Miller, Marshalls Creek Fire Co., reported 34 alarms sounded for 28 fires in the area.

There were 11 dwellings, five grass, one car, one hotel, and eight woods fires.

The six other alarms were three calls for oxygen, two calls for searching parties for lost persons, and first aid for one young girl who fell from a horse.

Chief Miller said the alarms for this year were higher than in 1959, when 32 alarms were received.

Jackson Township Fire Co., Reeder's, had 10 alarms for the year. Fire Chief Russell Butz said last night.

The fires consisted of three chimneys and seven woods fires.

Fire Chief Lester Rice, Stroud Township Fire Department, reported 38 alarms for the company for the year just past.

The fires consisted of 13 dwellings, six chimneys, 12 grass, two railroad, one car, one truck and one alarm for a disabled airplane.

Chief Rice said, "This has been a good year for the company. We had 65 alarms in 1959 compared to 28 for 1960."

Honesdale Man Killed In Fall

HONESDALE, Pa. (AP)—Christian L. Highhouse, 78, a patient at a nearby nursing home, was killed Sunday in a fall from a porch roof.

Coroner John Perriage, ruling the death an accident, said the elderly patient apparently had awakened during the night, confused a window in his room for a door, walked out it and fallen from the roof.

The accident occurred after a nurse at the Knapp Nursing Home, about three miles east of Honesdale, had checked Highhouse and found him sleeping.

Find Body Of Missing Area Woman

WOODBIDGE, N.J. (AP)—The decomposed body of a woman found in a wooded area near Perth Amboy was identified Sunday as that of a Pennsylvania woman missing since last July.

Police said the woman was identified by her husband as Mrs. Frances P. Davis, 35, of R.D. 3, Moscow, Pa. The husband, Milton, said Mrs. Davis disappeared last July 15.

Davis told police his wife had been undergoing mental treatment at home. He said she had previously been missing for several days and was found in the woods near Stroudsburg, Pa.

No Foul Play
Police said the woman apparently died of exposure. They said there was no evidence of foul play.

The body was found in the Keasby section of Woodbridge Township by boys playing in the woods. The nearest homes are several hundred yards away.

Moscow, Pa., police saw the report of the incident in a teletype message and informed Davis.

Dr. William C. Wilentz, Middlesex County medical examiner, said he expects results of a dental check Monday on the body. He had said previously that the woman probably had been dead between six months and a year.

Damage Suit Ignored By Federal Jury

A FEDERAL Court jury in Scranton has denied a Mt. Vernon, N.Y., couple, damages in a suit against Russell and Carrie Young of Saylor'sburg, operators of Lake Mount Farm, a Pocono Mountains resort.

The jury returned the verdict Friday after deliberating only 17 minutes. Edward and Vera Engle, the plaintiffs, had sought $250,000 on behalf of their 13-year-old daughter, Veronica, who, they claimed, suffered serious injuries in a fall from a pony on June 20, 1957, at Lake Mount Farm.

Chief Federal Judge John W. Murphy made a part of the official record an accusation by Atty. Murray Mackson of Palmerton, counsel for the plaintiffs, that the jurist was trying to help the defense.

The charge was made in a sidebar conference. Judge Murphy said he was only "trying to bring out the facts, whether counsel liked it or not."

Engel, a multiple sclerosis victim, testified from a wheel chair during the trial. Atty. Cody H. Brooks represented the defendants.

Tax Outlook Dim

During his campaign, President-elect Kennedy expressed the belief that military expenditures will have to be increased substantially in 1961—perhaps as much as $3 billion.

He didn't say how this increase is to be met.

However, a hike of such size will throw the federal budget far out of balance and add fuel to the ever-present fires of inflation unless taxes are raised—or unless non-military government spending, existing and proposed, is reduced.

Direct and indirect taxes at present consume about one-third of our earning power. This means the average man already works four months during each year for Uncle Sam.

But if more government revenue is required, never think it can be gained by raising the taxes in the high or even middle brackets. The rates there are almost confiscatory now.

The great bulk of any additional tax income will have to come from a broadening of the tax base—which is a polite way of saying the lower income brackets will be harder hit by the 1961 tax scale.

That's the picture and it isn't pretty.

Opinions Of Other Editors

Important Omissions

Governor Lawrence has drawn for the Legislature the outlines of the program he wants for 1961. Most of it is non-revolutionary and basically sound. A surface merit is that it is not of the type to cost big money. He asks that it be enacted in the antithesis of the long, politics-ruled session.

The program includes extension of civil service, added emphasis on state parks and recreation areas, a step-up in the fight against juvenile delinquency, fair housing, control of abuses to migratory labor, highway safety, control of billboards, extension of library services, creation of a court administrator, further control of strip mining, more promotion for the sale of Pennsylvania farm products, and interstate compacts for the development of the Delaware River and for mental health.

There are notable omissions in the big money fields—aid to education and the unemployed and public assistance. In these the governor has chosen to wait to see what the federal government will provide.

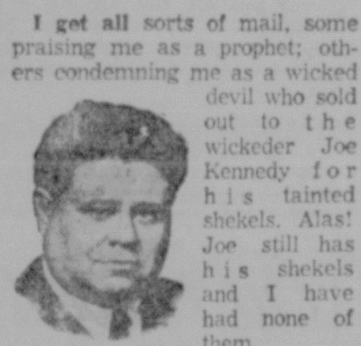

This is human nature, especially for a Democrat. It is also an unfortunate by-product of big-spending promises by a national administration, which tend to kill the initiative of the individual states in moving decisively to solve their own problems.

Another omission, and it was a strange one, was that of the big stick from the governor's message. He said he included none of his legislative proposals in the "must" category. This may merely have been a meaningless concession to tact. It it wasn't, it will do little to help the transformation of the program into law.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Freedom To Think

I get all sorts of mail, some praising me as a prophet, others condemning me as a wicked devil who sold out to the wicked Joe Kennedy for his tainted shekels. Alas! Joe still has his shekels and I have had none of them.

Truth to tell, I voted for Richard Nixon and do not need to apologize to anyone for having pursued my privilege. However, the day after Election Day, this was to be the new Administration. It is made up of younger men.

At the names of appointments rolled out there were many whom I know. Some, my long experience with the foibles of human beings, particularly those in public life, cause me to say that they are no worse than their predecessors and some are better.

I recognize no great genius as yet, but I do not see much political pay-off in the appointments thus far. Besides, there is always political pay-off to a degree.

I am asked why I do not object to Douglas Dillon, a Republican serving in the Kennedy Administration. It is forgotten that Colonel Frank Knox, Republican candidate for Vice President, and Henry L. Simon, Herbert Hoover's Secretary of State, accepted Cabinet positions in Franklin D. Roosevelt's Administration.

Douglas Dillon is an extraordinarily competent public official and his services can prove to be very valuable to the country. Whether he is a Republican or a Democrat seems to me immaterial, if he uses his position to strengthen the dollar.

What is this fierce dislike for John Kennedy? He has been elected. He is entitled by custom and gentility to at least 100 days of freedom to get started. He has not yet committed an overt act of any kind, except to nominate some deserving Democrats and Republicans for certain positions which the Senate can, constitutionally, if it chooses, reject.

Let us have a look at some of the names: admittedly, John Foster Dulles was a great man, a giant among Secretaries of State, but can the same be said for Christian Herter? Do those who complain about the appointment of Dean Rusk expect Kennedy to continue Herter in office? Would they have preferred Dean Acheson?

After all, it is usual in the United States for Democrats to appoint Democrats and Republicans to appoint Republicans.

I receive mail objecting to Robert Kennedy as Attorney General not because he is his brother's brother or because he is too young but because he has not been a trial lawyer. Since when does the Attorney General of the United States have to be a trial lawyer?

Apparently, when the Attorney General is envisaged, what is expected is a mouthpiece, perhaps Perry Mason in person? his is an administrative position, having to do with many phases of the law, with the management of our Federal courts and prisons and of the FBI and pursuing by investigation malefactors of various kinds.

I do not know whether Robert Kennedy could be a competent accident lawyer or whether he could defend a criminal, but that he is a careful and precise investigator and that he understands management is evident in his career.

So he is also the brother of his brother as John Eisenhower is the son of his father, as all the Roosevelts had their opportunities in the White House. I cannot get angry over this appointment, as some of my friends expect of me.

Nor do I expect Robert Kennedy to be a political and intellectual slave of Walter Reuther any more than Dwight D. Eisenhower was a political or intellectual slave of his fellow farmer, George Allen.

This is a Democratic Administration and it is expected that it will pursue Democratic tendencies with most of which I, as many of my readers, do not agree. But the time to criticize is when something is done which is disagreeable, not to say in advance that the bride has a glass eye.

The critics remind me of that passage in the Bible which deals with Balak, the King of Moab, who wanted Israel cursed, perhaps too early in its history. And Balak said unto Balaam, "What hast thou done unto me? I took thee to curse mine enemies, and behold, thou has blessed them altogether."

The campaign is over. The election has been held. The new President has not yet taken office. Let us wait to do our cursing. For the present, we require all the strength we have to curse Fidel Castro.

The Pennsylvania Story

Cabbage Heads

By Mason Denison
Harrisburg — 'The fiscal cabbage patch on Capitol Hill unquestionably is in anything but a flourishing condition these days.

In fact, a goodly number of the cabbage heads seem to have a most unhealthy hue — a withering color of literally dying on the vine for lack of nourishment.

This is not to say of course that Pennsylvania's lawmakers who gathered here during the past week for the opening of the 1961 legislative session are cabbage heads — far from it. We're referring to the fiscal cabbage patch and the dilemma facing Pennsylvania's brood of taxpayers in general.

(It is timely perhaps that Pennsylvania's legislative gentry — some 260 brethren strong — recessed from their hard-breathing chores this week to make way for the State Farm Show where there are those who know more about growing real cabbages than anyone else!)

However before the Keystone State's elected representatives departed from their desks last week, after having convened on Tuesday, they did manage to mount a sizeable offensive on the fiscal high ground they ultimately must conquer.

They squeezed through a tidy $62,000,000 emergency deficiency appropriation for Pennsylvania's relief program ($4,500,000) and the Commonwealth's education aid program ($11,800,000).

And therein lies part of the cabbage patch saga.

For some reason this year there seem to be many who feel that the deficiency appropriation routine is something new. It isn't by far. Rather, the requests for the deficiency appropriation on the part of the Lawrence Administration is the usual rather than the unusual and has been practiced rather routinely in recent years.

However, there is an interesting facet to this fiscal cabbage patch jumble beyond the realm of emergency stop-gap deficiency appropriations: the thorny problem of recurring deficits from one fiscal period to another, or more bluntly, from one administration to another.

The record seemingly is worth researching and bringing up to date, particularly in view of the deficit the current Lawrence Administration is going to have to face up to.

Going back to 1955 when Governor Leader assumed the gubernatorial robes as the first Democrat in sixteen years, this is what Mr. Leader had to say at that time — January, 1955:

"As we must now forecast the deficit for this biennium, it will come to a staggering total of approximately $86 million."

But this first Democratic chief executive in a decade charged at the time that the revenue pinch resulted from "a reckless fiscal policy in which each Republican governor in turn, and each Republican Legislature, followed a policy of 'after us, the deluge'."

It is perhaps a curiously ironic note, but certainly for the record worth recalling, that when Mr. Leader left office he himself left a deficit of $140,000,000.

It is significant too that when succeeding Democratic Gov. David L. Lawrence moved to the gubernatorial throne room, missing completely was any indication of "preceding governors" — or more bluntly put, Democratic Governor George Michael Leader.

Who is to blame for the continuing ruckus in Pennsylvania's fiscal cabbage patch?

The partisan answers are many and varied — as we've just illustrated.

What the final figures will be for the fiscal period ending May 31 is moot at the moment although speculation is wide. The answer should be forthcoming a week from today when the Lawrence Administration presents its budgetary summary for the coming fiscal year.

After that, the scratching in the cabbage patch should be something to witness — and feel — for Pennsylvania's eager taxpayers!

DEAR MR. EDITOR:

Ice, Snow On Bridge

Dear Editor:

About a week ago an article appeared in your paper warning the residents of the borough to have the snow and ice removed from their sidewalks.

Doesn't this apply to the borough itself, or the state, which ever one is responsible for the maintenances of the new Broad St. bridge?

With the closing of the Seventy St. bridge this became the only access to the business district. I am employed in a local store and, having no car, find it necessary to walk back and forth to work, as do many other southside residents.

I feel certain if any representative of the borough or state were to walk down over it he would realize how very treacherous it is.

When the bridge was constructed a nice sidewalk was built. Now there is just a narrow path of ice, with rough uneven rows of frozen cinders on each side.

Many residents of the southside have discussed it and condemned it but since I haven't heard of anyone doing anything about it I thought perhaps if it were brought to the attention of those responsible perhaps something would be done before an injury occurs and they are faced with a damage suit.

The Allen-Scott Report

Rayburn Warns Halleck

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — Rayburn is soft-spoken and mild-mannered, but he is doing some tough talking in the acrimonious wrangle over who controls the strategic Rules Committee.

Graphically illustrative is the blunt ultimatum the veteran Texan served on Republican Floor Leader Charles Halleck, Ind.

Quietly but bitingly, Rayburn warned he would immediately retaliate against the Republicans if they inject themselves into the bitter Democratic battle over the retention of Rep. William Colmer, Mississippi bolter, as a Rules Committee member.

That issue, Rayburn emphatically contended, is strictly up to the Democrats to settle. If the Republicans meddle in it by supporting Colmer, then Rayburn is firmly determined to meddle in their affairs.

Specifically, he told Halleck, he would use his authority as Speaker to name Republicans to committees instead of Halleck's doing that — as has been the practice.

This significant backstage discussion took place after Rayburn got wind that Halleck had promised the Republicans would support Rep. Howard Smith (D., Va.), chairman of the Rules Committee, if he would lead the battle for Colmer on the floor of the House.

While Smith did not publicly bolt the Kennedy-Johnson ticket, he followed Senator Harry Byrd in not declaring for it. Also like Byrd, Smith makes no bones of disapproving of major policies advocated by the President-elect.

"Charley, you had better think twice before you attempt to interfere in the selection of the Rules Committee," said Rayburn. "That's a game two can play. You are asking for trouble if you try to do anything like that, and I want you to clearly understand you'll get it."

"I don't have to remind you, that the Speaker of the House has a lot of authority. And I won't hesitate to use it if you force me to."

"What do you mean?" demanded Halleck.

"For one thing," retorted Rayburn, "I'll use my authority as Speaker to select the Republican members of all special and joint committees. I have that power, but I haven't used it. I have allowed you to designate the Republicans on these committees. But if you meddle in what we Democrats do about our members on the Rules Committee, then I'll give you a dose of your own medicine on the special and joint committees."

For a long moment the two House leaders eyed one another intently. Then Halleck broke the silence with an indirect answer.

"You know I have to follow whatever our caucus decides," he contended. "This matter isn't only up to me. The caucus will vote on the course to pursue, and I'll be bound by that."

"Yes, I know all about that," said Rayburn unconvinced. "But you didn't do any caucusing when you told Howard Smith you would back him if he would lead the floor fight for Colmer. That was your own, and some of your Republican colleagues are publicly saying they don't like it."

That ended their talk. The next move is up to Halleck.

More to come — Under House rules, the speaker can name all House members of special and joint committees — such as the potent Joint Atomic Committee, the Joint Economic Committee, the House Small Business Committee. The practice has been for Rayburn to designate the Democratic and Halleck the Republican members.

If Rayburn goes through with his ultimatum, he would ditch that practice and select all these committees — potentially a blow to Halleck's standing with the GOP.

In addition to depriving Colmer of his Rules Committee seat, Democratic leaders also are considering a lesser crack-down on other Mississippi bolters.

Rep. Jaime Whitten, John Bell Williams and Arthur Winstead, who also opposed the national Democratic ticket and platform, would lose the influential seniority they now have on the Agriculture, Interstate Commerce and Armed Services Committees. Whitten is a subcommittee chairman of the Agriculture Committee, and Williams of the Interstate Commerce Committee.

This move is still undecided, chiefly because the needed votes are not yet definitely assured — as it is claimed they are to ax Colmer in both the Democratic Committee on Committees and caucus.

Rayburn has one ace up his sleeve if the Republicans wage a floor fight to keep Colmer on the Rules Committee.

Rep. Joseph Martin, Mass., former Republican Speaker and National Chairman, has told Rayburn he will back him "to the hilt" against Halleck. Said Martin, "I'll line up as many of our people as I can to help you, and I think you will be surprised by the number who will."

Martin has never forgiven Halleck for abruptly unseating him as GOP Floor Leader at the start of the last Congress in January 1959.

Saltiest Days

By Burton H. Fern, M.D.

That innocent-looking salt shaker can be a dangerous weapon.

You may not realize how your marriage can dissolve in a solution of salt water. Barbara does — she had a premenstrual tension!

She had always reasoned with calm, clear, chess tournament logic, but gradually, towards the end of each month, her raw, taut nerve endings began to jangle like an unanswered telephone. She'd explode when she didn't get her way — "No body loves me" — and when she did — "Everyone treats me like a baby."

Junior's babbling and the buzzing from Hubby's workshop triggered violent words, rivers of tears and monster headaches. When Hubby tried to surprise her one afternoon, she was met with an atomic blast about men who get in the way of house-cleaning.

Too Much Salt

Hubby was overworked with abuse, because Barbara was overworked with salt. Soon after her menstrual flow began, she was once again cool, calm and clear-thinking.

The chemical hormones flooding her system during the last week or ten days before the menstrual flow had stopped up her kidneys as far as salt was concerned. Her body had stockpiled salt—and, with salt, water.

What Happens

Oceans of salt water were sopped up by every tissue and organ, including the brain. But the skull has no give. The brain can't swell without nerve-tensing pressure, irritating emotional storms, constant headache and the black depths of despair.

Swollen breast tissue stretches pointed nerve endings in the skin.

The menstrual flow begins when the chemical hormones suddenly and mysteriously disappear. Salt gushes through the kidneys, swellings shrink and emotional storms change into a tropical calm — until salt again accumulates towards the end of the new month.

Medicine Can Control

Today, chlorothalidate medicine can keep salt pouring through kidneys in spite of those chemical hormones. You only take the pills on salty days, and after a few months of chlorothalidate control, your body may naturally stop stockpiling salt.

A week or ten days of premenstrual tension adds up to two to four months each year. See your doctor! Like Barbara, you'll be sweeter without that extra salt!

Congressional Quiz

Kennedy In History

By Congressional Quarterly

President-elect Kennedy will be inaugurated Jan. 20, and take his place in the history of the Presidents. This quiz tests your knowledge of some of the facts about Mr. Kennedy's part in that history and its relation to former Presidents. Try for four correct answers.

Q — Some observers argue whether Mr. Kennedy will become the 34th or 35th President. How could such a dispute arise?

A — Grover Cleveland served two terms as President (1885-1889 and 1893-1897), interrupted by the Presidency of Benjamin Harrison (1889-1893). The argument arises over whether Cleveland should be counted twice. CQ chooses 35th.

Q — Although President-elect Kennedy at 43 is the youngest man to be elected President, he will not be the youngest man inaugurated. Who holds that record?

A — Theodore Roosevelt was 42 years, 322 days old when he was inaugurated in 1901. As Vice President, he succeeded William McKinley who had been assassinated.

Q — Although the President-elect comes to the Presidency from the Senate, that chamber is not usually considered a training ground for Presidents. Only two other 20th Century Presidents served in the Senate prior to their elections. Can you name one?

A — Warren G. Harding served in the Senate 1915-1921 and Harry S. Truman was a Senator from 1935-1945.

Q — Mr. Kennedy, like four Presidents before him, is a Harvard graduate, and Harvard has educated more Presidents than any other college or university. The following list contains three Harvard graduates, and three Presidents who did not attend college. Can you distinguish them? George Washington, John Adams, Abraham Lincoln, Theodore Roosevelt, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Harry S. Truman.

A — George Washington, Abraham Lincoln, and Harry S. Truman were not college graduates.

Q — During the Presidential campaign, the President-elect said "I am not promising action in the first 100 days alone — I am promising you 1,000 days of exacting Presidential leadership. To what "first hundred days" was he referring?

A — The statement recalled the famous "hundred days" which began Franklin Roosevelt's first administration. During those Depression days, Congress passed at least 15 major acts.

Q — Mr. Kennedy has said the Federal Government should establish a cabinet Department of Urban Affairs. President Eisenhower and Truman were

Veteran's Guide

Q — As a widow of a World War II veteran, I am receiving death pension for myself and two children. I realize that, if I remarry, I am no longer eligible, but would the children still be eligible?

A — The children will be eligible in their own right until age 18, or, if in school, until age 21, unless they marry earlier.

Q — I did not file a claim for discharge from World War I because I felt my service-incurred disability was insignificant and it was not bothering me. Now, it does bother me, but I have been told there is a one-year-from-discharge deadline for filing a claim. Is this true?

A — There is no deadline for filing a claim for disability compensation. If you file within a year following discharge, your payments will be made retroactive to the date of your discharge. If you file after a year, your payments are effective from the date you file.

Q — On my discharge from the Armed Forces I received a lump sum disability severance payment. Will I have to pay this back to the Government if I am awarded VA compensation for the same disability?

A — Yes. The law requires that VA monthly compensation payments revert to the Government until the amount recovered is equal to the amount of disability severance pay the veteran received.

To brighten the dull season between the time the Christmas tree comes down and local hostesses recuperate from the rush of holiday parties, The Daily Record will present for its readers a full week of those happy happenings of Spring: fashions for Spring and Summer 1961.

Bobby Westbrook, woman's page editor and columnist for The Daily Record, will again be covering the showings of the New York Couture Group during National Press Week in New York City, serving as personal representative of this newspaper and also covering the shows for the other Ottawa newspapers.

The Middletown, N.Y., Times Herald Record; Oneonta, N.Y., Daily Star; Danbury, Conn., News Times; Plattsburgh, N.Y., Press Republican; and the Port Jervis, N.Y., Union Gazette.

Mrs. Westbrook, whose columns and feature stories have been consistent winners in the Pennsylvania Women's Press Assn. contests, covered the Alta Moda fashion showings in Rome, Italy, for The Daily Record last Summer.

Her reports, with full picture coverage, will be presented in full-page form beginning tomorrow, and will feature highlights from more than 40 of this country's leading designers.

With local readers in mind, Mrs. Westbrook will slant her stories to interest not only those who might buy original fashions at prices ranging as high as $1,000, but also the average reader who finds her fashions on the racks at local stores, those who sew-their-own, and keep remodeling last year's wardrobe.

Fashion Trends
Fashions: alta moda, haute couture, or mass produced, quickly follow leads set by pace-setters such as Pauline Trigere or Monte Sano & Pruzon. Wise women can stretch their wardrobes and their budgets by anticipating rising fashion trends so that this year's purchases will still look new when less fashion-conscious clothes begin to look dowdy.

World events, transportation, architecture and even politics influence fashion trends. This year, for instance, fashion editors will be watching the clothes to be presented by Oleg Cassini, whose designs have been chosen by Mrs. John Kennedy for her Washington Inaugural gowns.

David Gothe, of Little Pond Farm, Franklin Hill, who designed inaugural gowns for both Mrs. Roosevelt and Mrs. Eisenhower, will be flying home from Florence, Italy, in time to present his collection to the fashion press.

Others high on the list of newsmakers will be Samuel Winston, Luis Estevez, Cecil Chapman, Mollie Parnis, Christian Dior-New York, and Adele Simpson.

For the career girl will be designs by Mamselle, Suzy Perette, Junior Sophisticates; for the half-sizes, Paula Dean; for the men, Francesca and Victor LeBow.

To Write Column
There is a fashion in entertainment as well as in clothes. As sidelights of Press Week, Mrs. Westbrook will also be sharing in her Just Between Us some of the social highlights of the week, her impressions of some of New York glamour spots, and her experience at current Broadway shows.

The new Time & Life building will be the setting for one of the more fabulous dinners in its swank Tower Suite, new rival to "The Four Seasons" and "The Forum of the Caesars." The Pierre will be headquarters for the fashion shows as well as for the breakfasts, luncheons and dinners in its Roof Garden, Cotillion Room and Ballroom.

Other events have been scheduled for The Strick Club, the Columns and Gold Rooms of the Savoy-Hilton, the Terrace Room of the Plaza and Helena Rubenstein's penthouse, as well as the Seventh Ave. showrooms of a number of important designers.

Broadway shows to be reviewed by the fashion press will include "Wildcat" with Lucille Ball, "Becket" with Laurence Olivier and Anthony Quinn; and "An Evening with Mike Nichols and Elaine May."

The Wyckoff Shopper

"the friendly store"

A.B. Wyckoff

STROUDSBURG, PA.

It's always pleasant to see the Brentini sisters in our store. Residents of the Barrett area, they have a variety of interests and talents that make them pleasant companions for an evening, or delightful conversationalists for even a few moments. One of their enthusiasms is art, and Eda assures me that she will be represented once again in our Annual Wyckoff Art Show opening January 18th. Deadline for paintings is January 16th. Already a number of artists, including our own Francis Meredith, head of the display department, have registered entries with our advertising department.

One thing particularly interesting to me each year, is the number of new artists who use our Wyckoff show as a showcase for their first appearance. Sometimes these artists are elderly people who began painting as a hobby. Others are young, enthusiastic art students. If your own interest is art, when are YOU going to "get into the act"? Maybe you have more talent than you realize . . . so, why not buy some canvases, paints, and brushes from Walter Logan in our picture framing department, and give painting a try?

Coro, the famous creator of costume jewelry, is now putting out a very pretty line of lapel watches retailing at 14.95. Doris Hinton, our jewelry buyer, and Eleanor Randolph of her department, were wearing them the other day, and they are charming. What's more, they're guaranteed, Doris tells me.

I notice that many of the inexpensive new pins, lockets and earrings are cloisonne, and this to me is a good sign . . . something like the first robin or crocus. Cloisonne is lovely at any time, of course . . . but its dainty floral patterns and soft colors are particularly well suited to Spring and Summer fashions. Don't you agree?

Doris also attracted my attention to an excellent buy on stainless steel dinnerware in her department. Simply styled in a dignified and gracious manner that will combine pleasantly with any china pattern, this is of foreign make, with satin finish that is comparable to the most coveted American-made ware. What's more, all the knives have serrated edges, which is a rather unusual and most desirable feature. And guess the price! Ah-ha, I knew you'd be dollars high. It's only 19.50 for a 50 piece set. How's that for a Wyckoff value?

Because you love nice things, a famous manufacturer of women's lingerie is presenting a spring close-out of his lady nylon slips and briefs, so much admired by the fashion-conscious customer. The trimmed elastic leg briefs, sizes 4 to 7, regularly 3.00 are now 1.99. The beautiful slips, in pastel pink and blue, white, black and beige sizes 34 to 46, regular 7.95 and 8.95 are now 5.49, and S, M, L and extra large half slips, regularly 1.95 and 5.95 are 3.95. These come in short, average, and tall lengths.

Truth is, these are such an excellent buy, and we have mentioned them on the air and in the Wyckoff ad of Saturday—so they may be gone by this time. Why not call and see?

Juvenile Delinquency Is Topic

MOUNT POCONO — Juvenile delinquency as it relates to what youngsters read is one subject on the agenda today for the opening session of the annual publishing convention of the Columbia Union Conference of Seventh-day Adventists at the High Point Inn.

Bruce M. Wickwire, of Washington, D.C., chairman of the four-day parley, has announced that study will be given by the parley as to what means his group can "stop" the tide of teen-age and youth delinquency in the country today.

More than 250 official delegates and guest speakers from seven states and the District of Columbia are expected to be on hand at 9 a.m. for an opening and keynote address by Lewis E. Lenheim, of Takoma Park, Md., president of the Columbia Union Conference of Adventists.

A pre-convention executive session was held yesterday at Mount Pocono by session leaders. Plans for the parley were discussed by publishing secretaries and their assistants from the eight local state conferences represented at the meeting.

Delegates attended from Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Ohio, Maryland, Delaware, Virginia, West Virginia, and the District of Columbia.

Speaker List

Other speakers scheduled to-day include Irvin H. Ihrig, of Nashville, Tenn., manager of the Southern Publishing Association; D. A. Bailey, associate manager of the book department of the Review and Herald Publishing Association, Washington, D.C.; Paul Weichert, Mount Vernon, Ohio, manager of the Book and Bible House of the Ohio Conference of Adventists; Joseph A. Jarry, of Baltimore, Md., secretary of the publishing department of the Chesapeake Conference of Adventists; Leonard Bierlien, of Parkersburg, secretary of the publishing department of the West Virginia Conference of Adventists; and Wickwire.

The parley forms the advisory and sales group of the church's publishing work in the Middle Atlantic area. Policies are reviewed and actions are taken to strengthen the publishing interests of the church for the next year. The last convention of this kind was held in Washington, D.C. This is the first time the group has met in Pennsylvania.

The entire facilities of the High Point Inn has been turned over to the convention group. The overflow has been sent to other area motels.

Dear Abby

Answer For Everything

Lewis Lenheim

Dear Abby: I am 55 and am engaged to a man, 60, who can give me security and interesting companionship. Here is my heartache: SIX years ago he was engaged to a woman who told him she wouldn't allow him even an occasional cocktail. He broke the engagement and asked her to return the beautiful two-carat diamond he had given her. Now he wants to adorn my finger with the same ring. Should I tell him I want a new ring? I don't want to play—

SECOND FIDLE
Dear Second: Why don't you suggest that he have the diamond reset in a new mounting? It takes a lot of lettuce to replace two carats.

Dear Abby: Do you realize that because you printed the letter signed "Jay L." you could be indirectly responsible for restoring vision to hundreds of sightless people?

But, Abby, please correct a popular misconception about the legal "willing" of eyes. Cornea transplants must take place 48 hours after decease. Prospective donors must make prior arrangements by writing to Eye Bank, 210 East 6th Street, N.Y.C. A card is sent to the donor, which he carries in his wallet, authorizing the removal of his cornea immediately after death. There is definitely no personal disfigurement and no cost to the donor. In my opinion, the legacy of sight is one of the finest humanitarian acts a person can perform. Gratefully,

There's something about "Sunnyside-Up" that fits a bright, cold January morning. Sunnyside-up, in fact, sounds like a good way to meet a whole new year. And that is exactly what your electric company is doing—looking ahead, firmly convinced that Central Eastern Pennsylvania is in an extended period of sound growth.

Already 24 million dollars is earmarked for 1961 for the construction of additional power plant facilities, power lines and other service equipment with which to supply you better. An average of even more has been established for the four years following—getting ready for more and bigger industries, more jobs, more opportunities and more of everything for everybody.

As we see it, 1961 should be a firm year moving steadily toward further progress and prosperity—and, as the catch hit of some years back suggests, "Keep your sunnyside up! up!"

May the New Year's blessings be shared by all of our customers.

Errors By Brokers

By William A. Doyle

Q. Recently, I ordered 50 shares of a certain stock, at $22 a share, through my broker. This particular stock is traded in the over-the-counter market. There was a misunderstanding. The broker purchased for me 50 shares of another stock, also traded over-the-counter, at $22 a share.

When I received my confirmation slip of this purchase through the mail, I notified the broker of his error. He said he would try to cancel the order. Later he informed me that it would cost me $1 a share to correct the error. Rather than be out $50, I purchased and paid for the unwanted stock. Was I "taken" by this broker?

A. If the facts are as you state them, you certainly were "taken." Your big mistake was paying for that stock you say you didn't order and didn't want.

The subject of errors by brokers is a real touchy thing. Most people (including this correspondent) are surprised to learn that a customer can sometimes be legally at a loss because of a broker's error.

But, as you present the case, there seems to be no reason why you should have had to buy stock you didn't want. If there was any loss to be taken, the broker should have taken it.

You should report this broker to the National Assn. of Securities

Dealers, the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, your state securities commission and any stock exchanges to which his firm belongs.

All these do good jobs. But they need help from the investing public. If you and other investors don't cooperate, shady operators will continue to plague the public.

Q. Market letters from brokerage houses and investment advisory services often state that more odd-lot selling than odd-lot buying is an indication that stock prices will rise. They also state that more odd-lot buying than odd-lot selling is an indication that stock prices will fall.

This throws me. Can you explain this reasoning?

A. I'll explain it. But that doesn't mean that I go along with it. Odd-lot transactions are purchases or sales of less than round lots (100 shares) makes a round lot in most stocks) on the New York Stock Exchange.

The people who deal in odd lots are small investors. The total odd-lot purchases and sales are announced each day.

Many so-called "smart operators" believe that the "little guy is always wrong." So, if you believe that heavy odd-lot buying means that stock prices are headed for a slump and that heavy odd-lot selling means that stock prices are headed for a rise, you also go along with that theory.

Personally, I put little or no faith in that whole idea.

Q. How is it possible to tell whether there is more odd-lot buying or selling? Doesn't there have to be a buyer for every seller?

A. Yes. But odd-lot transactions are channelled through odd-lot dealers. They are members of the New York Stock Exchange who buy and sell stocks in round lots for their own accounts in order to have stocks to execute odd-lot orders.

(Mr. Doyle will answer only representative letters of general interest in his column. He cannot answer phone queries.)

Auburn Loses 56-48

Major Unbeaten Ranks
Down To Fidgety FiveBy DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The list of major unbeaten was down to five Sunday after a brisk weekend in college basketball that brought increased respect for Louisville, Vanderbilt and DePaul but left Ohio State's Buckeyes and the Bradley Braves clearly at the top.

Tenth-ranked Auburn, 6-0 this season and with a 15-game winning streak over the last two seasons, dropped out of the select unbeaten list—a 56-48 victim to Mississippi State in an upset that snapped Auburn's home court string of victories at 36.

So the perilous perfect record club, the shaky six, became the fidgety five and if there was another surprise it was that Auburn was the only one to fall.

Louisville, fourth-ranked nationally; Vanderbilt, and unranked but eye-catching DePaul all passed rugged road tests to stay unbeaten along with top-ranked Ohio State, which crushed Illinois 91-65 in its Big Ten opener, and second-ranked Bradley, a 76-60 winner over Tulsa as 6-foot-6 Chel Walker scored 46 points, 30 in the first half.

Louisville, running its school record winning streak to 13 for the season, smashed a strong

Marquette club 84-63 at Milwaukee. Vanderbilt, now 10-0 with a 12-game streak, nipped Tennessee 68-66 in a South-eastern Conference scramble, and DePaul, now 9-0 with a 10-game streak, journeyed to Dayton's lair of pitfalls and came away with a 75-64 decision as Howie Carl's 24 points led a balanced attack.

Others Survive
All other members of the Associated Press' top ten came through their Saturday games, but all have some hustling to do if they are to keep pace with tall, tough and posed Ohio State and the smooth-working Braves of Bradley.

"Better than ever. We were never in the game," sighed Illinois Coach Harry Combes after Ohio State's defending NCAA champions, led by All-America Jerry Lucas' 35 points, crushed the Illini.

The Bucks now have won 10 straight this season after ending the 1959-1960 campaign with five in a row in their rush to the national championship. Their 15-game streak runs second, however, to Bradley—the defending National Invitation Tournament champ—which made it 13 straight (12-0 this season) in making Tulsa its fourth straight Missouri Valley Conference victim.

The Braves also got a big assist from Wichita, which handed St. Louis its first MVC defeat 70-61 at St. Louis Saturday night, er in the game," sighed Illinois (11-1), beaten only by Ohio State, fought off Duquesne 89-78 as brilliant sophomore Fred Crawford scored 32 points and Tom Stith 23, and sixth-ranked North Carolina (8-2) tripped Notre Dame 73-71, outscoring the Irish 9-1 in the last three minutes and winning on Jim Hudock's tip-in basket at the buzzer.

Iowa Rolls
Iowa, rated seventh and developing as a Big Ten threat to Ohio State, rolled to a 9-1 record with a 71-46 rout of Minnesota, and Duke sophomore Art Heyman had 27 points and 16 rebounds as the eighth-ranked Blue Devils (11-1) crushed North Carolina State 81-67. Ninth-ranked UCLA, upset by Washington Friday night, came back to whip the Huskies Saturday 62-58.

The Uclans' Big Five challenge came from Southern California, now 10-2 after back to back victories on the road against California, which had a 26-game home court winning streak when the series began. The Trojans showed Friday's victory was no fluke by repeating it, 65-57 Saturday.

EAST STROUDSBURG State College's wrestling team evened its record at 2-2 against Montclair Saturday and after a rest period for exams, meets Oswego (N.Y.) College in an exhibition match here Friday.

The Warriors downed Montclair at Normal Hill 18-14 but after winning the first three bouts, managed only one other victory.

Mel Williams' pin-win in the 167-pound class clinched the win for the Warriors.

Headlock Pin

Williams, used a headlock to pin Baldwin Camin in 4:01. It was one of three pins scored by East Stroudsburg.

Unbeaten Ken Nickischer scored his fourth straight triumph, pinning Bob Weir with a double-arm tieup at the 2:10 mark of their 123-pound opener.

George Kayal followed with another pin. Kayal used a half-nelson and inside crutch hold to dump Paul Maroney with 4:55 gone in the 120-pound bout.

The Warriors' Stan Woods made it three wins in a row, defeating Bob Moore 12-2. The win put East Stroudsburg in front 13-0.

But Montclair won the next two bouts, before Williams applied the clincher. The New Jersey club also won the final two bouts.

The Warrior junior varsity won the preliminary match 16-13.

Only Minor Rule Changes
Sought By Coach Group

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

Associated Press Sports Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The rules committee of the American Football Coaches Association Sunday presented a half-hearted suggestion for a further relaxation of the anti-platoon substitution rule and a half dozen other proposals for minor changes in the football playing rules.

This was the only completed business of the morning session at which some of the major committees of the National Collegiate Athletic Association and its assorted allied bodies began the serious business of their meetings leading up to the national convention on Wednesday.

The influential NCAA council, which is hearing representatives of the University of North Carolina, Oklahoma and possibly some other institutions on cases regarding violation of recruiting rules, made no report. It may not have any statement until Monday.

Sends Representatives
North Carolina, reported to be in difficulty over the rules for recruiting basketball players, had representatives here for Sunday's council meeting. Oklahoma was placed on indefinite suspension a year ago for violations of the rules on football recruiting. It is understood that the NCAA council expects to receive information that may modify this penalty.

The AFCA rules committee is an advisory body which merely relays the recommendation of coaches to the NCAA rules committee, which is scheduled to meet next week in Miami, Fla. The NCAA committee is the one which makes final decisions on the playing rules.

Coach Jack Curtice of Stanford, reporting on the consensus of coaches, said that there was a slight majority favoring a return to free and unlimited substitution.

The vote was 6-4 from a committee which surveyed the opinions of coaches in various districts. In two districts, Curtice said, half the coaches questioned failed to agree whether they preferred platoon football or the present rule which permits unlimited substitution of players one at a time and in larger numbers on a limited basis.

Minor Changes
The coaches were unanimous in favoring elimination of the rule forbidding coaching from the sidelines and for a few minor changes in the present rules.

The feeling was that the present wild card substitution rule makes it legal for a coach to send in a player from the bench any time he sends in the one substitute allowed. They also pointed out that in other sports coaches are permitted to call players to the sidelines and give them instructions.

Harney's 71 Holds Lead In L. A. Open Tournery

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Hard-hitting Paul Harney hung on to the lead after 45 holes of the $45,000 Los Angeles Open Sunday, shooting even par 71 for a total of 207 and a slender lead of one stroke over the field.

The 31-year-old professional from Worcester, Mass., faced a difficult putt before a packed gallery on the 18th hole late this bright, sunny day and came through to par the hole and the round.

Harney thus goes into the final 18 holes Monday in quest of the $7,500 top prize one spot in front of three dangerous rivals, Lionel Hebert, Bob Goaly and Bob Rosburg.

The hunky Harney went into the round with a pair of bright 68's behind him and a bare one shot lead over Ken Venturi, Goaly and Eric Monti.

All had a crack at Harney as a record gallery estimated at over 20,000 swarmed over the 7,000-yard, par 36-35-71 Rancho Municipal Golf Club course in West Los Angeles.

At the windup of the third round, there were three other rivals just two strokes behind Harney—former United States Open champion Billy Casper, young Tommy Jacobs and unheralded Bob Gajda.

Group Cites Failure Of Schools To Merge

HARRISBURG (AP)—A research team from Gov. David L. Lawrence's Committee on Education says the state has failed in efforts to encourage creation of larger school districts.

The committee released the report over the weekend and stressed that its findings "do not necessarily constitute recommendations of members of the governor's committee."

The report concluded that school code requirements for district reorganization according to county plans have been evaded and ignored.

County superintendents were supposed to draw up these county merger plans between July, 1947 and July, 1948. The plans were to have been submitted to the State Council of Education, and, if approved, put on the ballot in a referendum.

"Probably no law has been evaded more frequently and with more aplomb since the Volstead Act (the prohibition enforcement law)," the report stated.

It added that most of the plans were drawn up on paper but most "still languish in filing cabinets."

The report said some county superintendents did not push the merger plans because they wanted to preserve the status quo. Also, any third class school districts established by mergers have the authority to elect their own superintendents and remove themselves from a county superintendent's jurisdiction, the report noted.

It said, too, that financial incentives for creating jointures, mergers and union districts haven't been as successful as they were anticipated to be.

"The one-teacher school was eliminated because it could not meet the needs of an increasingly urban and industrial society," the report said. "And these are precisely the problems that confront the small high school today."

The committee's report said 1,600 pupils is the minimum for a good school system and nearly half of all jointures have fewer than that amount.

It also reported that three-fourths of all districts not included in a jointure have less than 1,600 pupils.

The largest barrier to consolidation, the report said, has been

Learned Meaning Of Fear

LONDON (AP)—Donald Meagher, employed by the Ministry of Transport to test applicants for driving licenses, says he learned the meaning of fear while doing his job with Miss May Goodwin.

Miss Goodwin, 56, a bespectacled machinist, was taking a test for the second time. She failed the first.

For 25 minutes Meagher sat frozen by her side "while she swung a sedan through the back streets of suburban Subiton. Suddenly his nerve cracked."

"Stop," he shouted. "Stop here."

Then he hopped out, slammed the door and walked away. Miss Goodwin waited and waited but he never came back.

Unknown to her, Meagher had hurried on foot to his office to complain that she was driving dangerously.

Now the Transport Ministry is receiving protests about the way Meagher handled the situation.

"He made me terribly nervous," Miss Goodwin told a reporter. "All the way round the test route he kept saying: 'Steady now, you don't want to be killed, do you?'"

"He didn't tell me I was driving dangerously and I know jolly well I wasn't."

Meagher's comment was terse. "Enough was enough," he said. "You've got to draw the line somewhere."

Miss Goodwin's instructor at the driving school found her sitting stranded in the sedan after Meagher staged his walkout. The instructor, Jack Cross, was angry.

"Miss Goodwin doesn't drive at all badly," he declared.

A protest was filed off to the ministry by John Edwards, proprietor of the driving school.

"Mr. Meagher shouldn't have abandoned Miss Goodwin like that," he said. "He should either

Chemical Firm Hikes Capacity

NEW YORK (AP)—Enjoy Chemical Co., a division of Humble Oil & Refining Co., will virtually double benzene and toluene production capacity at its Baytown, Tex. refinery. The expanded facilities will be ready in early 1962. Humble's total capacity, including a Baton Rouge, La., unit, will be increased to 80 million gallons a year.

Benzene is used in synthetic rubber making and in manufacture of plastics, resins, detergents and insecticides. Toluene is a chemical raw material used in dyes and military explosives.

Half Million To Witness Inauguration

WASHINGTON (AP)—The inauguration of President-elect John F. Kennedy will climax a four-day spectacular marked by a great parade, parties and possible pandemonium.

No one is quite sure how many visitors will flock from the 50 states to join the Democratic whoop-up — but inaugural officials expect half a million.

It will probably be the biggest crowd ever to come to an inaugural, Chairman Edward H. Foley of the arrangement committee predicts.

Two former presidents — Democratic Harry S. Truman and Republican Herbert Hoover — are among the new president's personal guests. And by tradition, outgoing President Eisenhower will ride with Kennedy to the oath-taking ceremony.

VIPs from politics to show business will be part of the celebration.

Mrs. Wilson
Among them will be Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, former Vice President Henry Wallace, poet Robert Frost, singer Marlene Anderson and a galaxy of Hollywood and Broadway stars headed by Frank Sinatra and Kennedy's actor brother-in-law, Peter Lawford.

Such Washington socialites as Gwen Oatitz and Marjorie Merriweather Post may be helping with inaugural entertaining.

Governors of every state and all 318 living Medal of Honor winners are on the guest list.

It has been eight years since the Democrats last held the reins of government, and they're prepared to celebrate.

Hotels will be bursting and some 5,000 persons will be berthed in sleeping cars parked in Washington railroad yards.

The Capitol, its white marble face cleaned and reconstructed for the first time in 36 years, awaits the outdoor oath-taking ceremony at noon on Jan. 20.

The whole inaugural celebration — including a Hollywood gala — will cost something like $800,000.

But the bills are underwritten by a $1 million fund contributed by business firms and Democratic figures.

The Democrats expect to pay off a big chunk of their $3 million 1960 campaign deficit with proceeds of the inaugural eve gala, produced by Sinatra, with Lawford among the stars.

If a visitor goes for everything the inaugural committee has produced — from medals to auto tags — he can part with a lot of money.

Prices range from $1 for a souvenir 64-page program to $100 for a 10-seat box at Sinatra's gala.

There are free seats for 18,000 and room for plenty of standees outside the Capitol Plaza to watch Kennedy take his oath of office, administered by Chief Justice Earl Warren, and to listen to Kennedy's inaugural address.

And 60,000 seats, priced from $3 to $25, have been arranged along the 3½-mile route of the inaugural parade that will wind from the Capitol, down Pennsylvania Avenue and past the White House.

Kennedy is sparking a return to formal dress for the inaugural by making cutaway and high silk hat the order of the day for his swearing-in ceremony.

Eisenhower, who preferred a homburg for his inaugural, will conform to the top hat this time.

Emergency Funds Signed By Governor

HARRISBURG (AP)—Gov. David L. Lawrence has signed legislation setting aside $62.5 million in emergency funds to carry the state's relief and education system through the biennium ending next May 31.

The governor signed the stop-gap fund measures Saturday in Philadelphia where he stopped overnight en route to Washington for an appointment with President-elect John F. Kennedy.

In a statement, Lawrence commended the lawmakers for their prompt action in approving the emergency funds.

"It is my hope that a similar sense of urgency and mature understanding will prevail in the many areas of vital concern that will come before the legislature in the coming days and weeks," he added.

The legislation authorizes the state to divert $50 million from the retirement funds of state school teachers and state employees. It also appropriates some $62.5 million, including $44.5 million for relief payments and more than $16 million for educational subsidies and payments.

The other $12.5 million will be diverted from unused appropriations through executive order.

Dr. Koehler said the population at East Stroudsburg State College has grown to 1400. He announced that the state's "new campus plan," devised to run to 1980, will see an expenditure of between 10 and 11 million dollars for buildings.

Carl Secor, superintendent of East Stroudsburg Joint Schools, and Earl Groner, superintendent of Stroud Union School District, pointed out that they are going with the national trend in offering enriched programs for the gifted child from elementary grades through high school.

According to the superintendents, both school systems are meeting the national emergency

School Problems Aired On Program

HORIZONS, the new WVPO Sunday afternoon program, was launched yesterday with a group of educators discussing the problems of school administration in Monroe County, and with five student council members from area schools pointing out the good and weak points of student government.

Student Discipline
The students on their topic of student government offered the conclusions that discipline is their biggest single problem and that they, as individuals, think that the student councils should be given more authority and power by the administration and faculty.

"Curriculum Development" will be the subject of next week's educators' forum. The topic for the students has not yet been announced.

Dr. Alfred D. Sumberg of East Stroudsburg State College and Joseph Whalen of Station WVPO will again be moderators of the two-part program, broadcast from 3 to 4 p.m.

Population Explosion
John C. Litts, county superintendent of schools, and Dr. LeRoy J. Koehler, president of East Stroudsburg State College, agreed that the great increase in school population has created a multitude of problems for both the public and the college administrations to cope with.

Litts stated that within the last 15 years the school population of the county has doubled and that the bill for operating the public school transportation system here for the past year has come to one-quarter million dollars.

By September 1961 Litts hopes to have established kindergarten facilities for each child in the county.

Dr. Koehler said the population at East Stroudsburg State College has grown to 1400. He announced that the state's "new campus plan," devised to run to 1980, will see an expenditure of between 10 and 11 million dollars for buildings.
